

Visit Cohousing Communities in Oregon's Willamette Valley - Sunday, Oct 26th

Thanks for your interest in taking a day to explore cohousing options at both CoHo Ecovillage in Corvallis and Oakleigh Meadow Cohousing in Eugene. (FYI--you do NOT need to visit both communities but are encouraged to take advantage of this special opportunity)

Acting on Oakleigh's slogan "It's Better Together," our two communities are teaming up to welcome visitors with an interest in cohousing in Oregon.

Corvallis - 10:30am

The FREE two-for-one tour starts at 10:30am at CoHo Ecovillage in Corvallis. It's work party day, so visitors will see CoHoots in action around our 6.8-acre site. Learn first-hand what it's like living in a caring, sharing community five+ years after move-in. With luck, the sun will be out and you can bask in the beautiful rainbows inside the common house that are lured in by Peter Erskine's unique solar art installation.

Eugene - 2:30pm

Come by to see the beautiful location for Oakleigh Meadow Cohousing. Our cozy set of 28 homes will be nestled in a meadow, within walking distance to the Willamette River and just a 15-minute ride down the bike path to Downtown Eugene. Architectural drawings will show you the building plans. Community members will show you what a what a great group of people we are! The City of Eugene and The Planning Commission have given us approvals, so we'll be breaking ground this fall.

Logistics

- There is no cost for the tours.
- Transportation is on your own; carpooling is encouraged.
- CoHo Ecovillage is at 1975 SE Crystal Lake Drive, on the corner of Crystal Lake Drive and Alexander in Corvallis. Park anywhere in our parking lot or on Alexander (but NOT on Crystal Lake Drive or the cemetery next door). The tour starts at the common house, the building with the tower at the parking lot entrance.

- For the Oakleigh Meadow Cohousing tour, meet at Govinda's restaurant, at 1030 River Rd, crossing by Hilyard (not the meadow). A talk will be followed by a tour of the land.
- Consult the internet if you'd like more detailed driving directions using either I5 or Highway 99. The two communities are about 43 miles/44 minutes apart.
- If you're coming from outside the area for a longer visit, contact us for additional trip planning options.

RSVP

Please sign up for one or both tours by contacting Susan by phone (541-753-4453) or email (cohocontact@cohoecovillage.org).
